

EPISODE FINISHED:

You told him way too much about your Asperger's, and most of it was not that important to him. Those details (or other similar details) might be a big part of your personal memories, but other people are more interested in how they can get along with you better.

back to main
menu